

Week 3 Student Checklist

1. This week, make sure to begin with the Native Nation Internal Lecture.
2. Right after, make sure to watch the Writing Lecture.
3. Make sure to become very familiar with the Final Essay Prompt, and please don't hesitate to email if you have any questions!
4. The only assignment due for this week will be the journal blog posts using the "Discussions" function in Canvas. All blog posts for this week must be submitted by 11:59 pm on Tuesday, November 13, 2018. This week's journal post will be helpful in preparing for your final essay. The prompt is: For this week's blog posts, let's practice looking for and analyzing context within the Hopi Constitution. Try to analyze the context as thoroughly as you can by using all 4 different categories for analyzing context from this week's writing lecture. You may have to do some outside research to find some information for each of the categories. After you've thoroughly analyzed the 4 categories within the Hopi Constitution, explain why you think it's important to fully understand the context. What would be missing, or how could the text be interpreted differently, if readers were unaware of the context? Make sure to reach the full 150-200 word minimum requirement for the post, and don't forget to respond to 2 different peers.
